- The business combination transaction with Arya Sciences Acquisition Corporation, a special purpose acquisition company sponsored by Perceptive Advisors, was completed on July 1, 2020
- The combined company was renamed Immatics N.V.
- Immatics common stock and warrants will commence trading today on the Nasdaq Capital Markets under the ticker symbols “IMTX” and “IMTXW”, respectively
- Proceeds from this transaction were approximately $250 million, combining funds held in Arya’s trust account and a concurrent PIPE financing

Houston, Texas and Tuebingen, Germany, July 2, 2020 – Immatics N.V. (NASDAQ: IMTX; “Immatics”), a clinical-stage biopharmaceutical company active in the discovery and development of T cell redirecting cancer immunotherapies, today announced the completion of its business combination with Arya Sciences Acquisition Corp. (NASDAQ: ARYA; or “Arya”), a special purpose acquisition company (SPAC) sponsored by Perceptive Advisors. Today, Immatics N.V. will commence trading its shares under the symbol “IMTX” and its warrants under the symbol “IMTXW” on the Nasdaq Capital Market. Proceeds from this transaction were approximately $253 million, which included funds held in Arya’s trust account and the common stock private investment in public equity (PIPE) financing contributed by a group of leading US healthcare institutional investors. The shareholders of Arya approved the transaction on June 29, 2020, and none of Arya’s shareholders redeemed their shares in connection with the ARYA shareholder approval. The transaction had been previously approved by Immatics shareholders. Immatics’ management team, led by Chief Executive Officer Harpreet Singh, Ph.D., will continue to run the combined company.

Harpreet Singh, Ph.D., Co-Founder and CEO of Immatics, commented: “I would like to thank the team at Immatics, our partners at Perceptive, existing Immatics and Arya shareholders, the PIPE investors, and all our advisors for making this transaction a success. It will provide us runway and flexibility for our pursuit of unlocking new therapeutic options for cancer patients by advancing our clinical and pre-clinical programs for Adoptive Cell Therapies and TCR Bispecifics. Our programs are directed against a range of targets that address multiple rare as well as common cancers that have been hard to treat.”

New investors supporting the transaction include Perceptive Advisors, Redmile Group, Federated Hermes Kaufmann Funds, RTW Investments and Sphera Funds, alongside existing Immatics investors dievini Hopp BioTech, AT Impf and Wellington Partners.

Adam Stone, Chief Investment Officer of Perceptive Advisors and the Chief Executive Officer of Arya, added: “Immatics’ technology platforms open up a breadth of novel targets and therapeutic strategies that could help overcome some of the challenges we have seen with immunotherapy to date. We believe that the Immatics approach could provide truly novel opportunities for patients in need and we look forward to supporting the Company as it advances its key programs addressing solid tumors.”

Immatics is developing targeted immunotherapy candidates based on its suite of technologies which enables the identification of otherwise inaccessible intracellular protein targets displayed on a cell’s surface. Accessing these targets is generally recognized as an important key to unlocking hard-to-treat cancers, particularly solid tumors. Immatics is leveraging this to develop a pipeline of novel T cell receptor (TCR)-based products designed to deliver a robust and specific T cell response against cancer cells. Immatics’ international team, located in Munich and Tuebingen, Germany, as well as in Houston, Texas, is committed to advancing its proprietary therapeutic pipeline and collaboration programs with global pharmaceutical leaders to address significant unmet medical needs in oncology.

About this transaction

On March 17, 2020, Immatics, a privately held biotechnology company, entered into a definitive business combination agreement with Arya, a special purpose acquisition company (SPAC) sponsored by Perceptive Advisors, that was created for the purpose of entering into a business combination with a selected biopharmaceutical company and bringing the combined entity to the NASDAQ.

As a result of the business combination, Immatics received proceeds of approximately $253 million, prior to transaction expenses, which includes cash proceeds of approximately $149 million from Arya’s trust account and $104 million from PIPE investors led by Perceptive Advisors, other top-tier US healthcare investors and existing Immatics investors.

The description of the business combination contained herein is only a high-level summary and is qualified in its entirety by reference to the underlying documents filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission. A more detailed description of the terms of the transaction has been provided in a registration statement on Form F-4 filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission by Immatics.
